Combined with the great damage at range and you can spray bullets so far away the enemy has a hard time returning fire. Good luck to any enemy that has to wait out the relentless onslaught that can be delivered at a steady pace. 4 P416 One of the weaker damage dealers of the bunch, the P416 is mainly a stealth weapon that can be used even in the most delicate situations. This also gives players a high level of confidence jumping into a firefight situation, preventing the usual jumpy gameplay when entering tight spaces. Assault Rifles belong to the middle ground with some wiggle room in between. For players making their way through the battlefields of the wild in Ghost Recon: Wildlands, a trusted weapon should be the first thing you're trying to obtain. At long range, things tend to get a little blurry so if you like hanging out in the background, it's not for you. For that, players require only the best the game has to offer. 7 Mk17 Acting as a 2 for 1 drop, the location of the MK17 is an armory with another highly coveted weapon. reactions are key to getting the most out of its capabilities as you will hit first and fast. Sometimes the best thing about a gun is it's lack of negatives, meaning you can trust it at every point combat. In fact, you can get it with relative ease, in the Barvechos province you'll find it hidden in a weapons case along the border. Luckily, the search for this versatile weapon doesn't take you down a rabbit hole. The recoil of the rapid-fire shots barely moves the crossfire, leaving you to hold down the trigger. Once the player has it, it's common to stick with the gun until the end. This is only accentuated by the range of attachments that can take the gun to the next level. If that isn't enough to entice you, the MK17 deals a massive amount of damage per hit. 8 ACR Assault Rifle The hint is in the name, adaptable. 5 G2 Famas Though the G2 isn't an underpowered weapon by any means, the speed at which it fires bullets it wouldn't matter anyway. That means you'll have to take out the whole squad before claiming the prize. 9 556x As far as magazines go, the 556xi supports an impressive range all leading up to the 50 round drum that can be purchased in La Cruz. When you're tucked into a tight urban situation, giving away position by firing can cause a slow road ahead as you constantly maneuver the enemy. Burst shots are always going to be an advantage, especially when you're dealing with an especially tricky enemy that only gives you a small opening to get the job done. The R5 RGP offers you the highest damage rate when you throw a suppressor on it. Make sure to pick the shot carefully, even the quietest gun will be detected on a miss. Los Hombres Jaguares is where you'll find it, right in the middle of a human hunting camp. 2 SR3M Rate of fire is an overlooked aspect when players consider a weapon, it's all about damage output and accuracy. Now considering the combo deal you get if you plan on entering the armory, it comes as no shock that players can't just stroll on by. As long as you have a steady hand and keep the end of your gun pointed at the target, it's pretty hard to not put the enemy down. Sporting the widest variety of attachments, Assault rifles become the most adaptable weapon in the game. 3 G36c The real test of a gun is how consistent it can pull off its job in great fashion. Although getting your hands on it is the hard part, as it's protected by an enemy outpost that the weapon happens to be right beside. Unsuspecting enemies will aid the underpowered rifle by giving up vulnerable positions and handing players a great shot. Its high noise suppression makes it barely detectable, especially amongst environmental noise or other gunfire. While the G36c doesn't look like a superstar on paper, you'll find it catches out a lot of impressive weapons with its ability to outperform in the weak spots. It's not always easy pickings when it comes to high powered weapons. The stealth protection is great, but the fewer shots the better and with high damage, it won't take many. If you hold a weapon that you're not comfortable with it becomes little more than a walking giveaway for the enemy. Even the picky player will struggle to find a flaw in the weapon, as it can attach almost every accessory available and can be tampered with to no end. Even being a team player has a major impact because if you have to suppress fire from a group, a speedy reload is a near requirement. 6 Tar 21 For the renegades among us who like to be dead center in the middle of the action, The Tar 21 provides a rate of fire that put most other guns to shame. Close range is where players will likely have the most success, before the enemy has a chance to react, the trigger has been pulled. That balances the scales considering its fire rate is quite low. A well-guarded area that comes with its fair few risks, it might be a wise move to scout the defense before you jump into battle. With plenty of weapons to choose from, players will get to customize their playstyle around the weapon of choice. Being the in-between is always beneficial as you can fall into surrounding roles with little adjustment.
